New office in Indianapolis USA

DSV has opened a brand new office in Indianapolis where neither DSV nor UTi has been represented before.

“We have wanted to open an office in Indianapolis for a long time, and actually, opening it now has proven very helpful, as we have been able to assist other DSV and UTi offices with shipments during the merger,” Branch Manager Jamin Naziri says.

Room for expansion

The Indianapolis office has already taken over 400 shipments from the Chicago office while Chicago continues to handle some major customers for the time being.

Six employees, including a couple from UTi, opened for business on 4 April and are busy meeting with new customers in Indiana. The expectation is that business will quickly grow, especially within the segments energy, agriculture, engineering and industrial machineries.
